★MEMORANDUM

Date: 3/5/2007

To: Project participants and interested stakeholders

From: Emily Dick and Ben Weiner
Project Coordinators

Subject: Big Darby Watershed stream setback project

About the project

To comply with recent Ohio EPA regulations, Franklin County is adopting regulations that establish buffer zones around streams in the Big Darby Watershed.

The Franklin County Planning Department and the Franklin Soil and Water Conservation District are jointly coordinating the establishment of these regulations.

Invitation to participate

The project team is seeking expertise and input from a wide range of stakeholders. You are invited to participate in the drafting of these regulations. The regulation text will be completed over an 8-week period.

First meeting

An introductory meeting will be held: Thursday, March 15th - 9:00am
Memorial Hall West Conference Room (1st floor)
280 E. Broad Street, Columbus

At this meeting, we will discuss the project format and responsibilities of participants in detail. If you are unsure whether you would like to participate, please feel free to attend the first meeting.
